The Tucson Index classifies the California is known to Zwlogists as the Pums. It is of the cat species, and depredates in the night time. It lives in mountains and forests and is a tree climber. It rarely attacks a man, but is very ready to prey on demestic animals, and has an extraordinary thirst for blood. One alone has been known to kill fifty sheep to a night drinking a little like a cat, and foud of attention. It is closely a lied to the leopard, but is a d'sinct species from the jaguar.

The jaguar is superior in strength an peed to the California lion or Pums. The is called the American tiger. It is spotted, and although encyclope has say it isthmus, it evidently inhabits the region along the line between Sonora and Arizona. The Papagees have frequently brought to Tueson the bides of large spotted animals, and if not juguers they must otherwise b

These descriptions of the spotted hides o the leopard and juguer have a close resemblancs. The next time the Papagoes bring in the peitry of these animals we will try and describe which kind of animal it is that nhabits South-ra Arizona, the companion of the Pums or Panther.
